

Message from the Chief

As Chief of Security, I am proud to be part of Einstein and its role as a premier, innovative learning and research institution.

In protecting its 32-acre open campus made up of more than 18 buildings, our dedicated and professional security personnel serve as our first line of defense against unauthorized access while also responding to a wide range of customer and emergency-response services.

Among their many responsibilities, my team is committed to:

- Providing an enjoyable, safe and secure campus environment
- Adopting proactive and innovative security initiatives
- Engaging in and maintaining open dialogue with students, faculty and staff
- Promoting situational awareness and theft-prevention strategies
- Establishing and nurturing a working relationship with our neighboring stakeholders and local law enforcement

Please remember that my security staff is available around the clock—24 hours daily—to assist with your safety and security matters. We encourage you as members of our campus community to provide any feedback, suggestions and observations that you feel will help to enhance our security efforts. For general feedback, please e-mail security@einstein.yu.edu. And in instances when you may wish your comments to be confidential, please contact me directly by calling 718-430-3585, or by e-mailing at neil.kaplan@einstein.yu.edu.

Neil Kaplan, CPP
Chief of Security
Albert Einstein College of Medicine